

“Original”

Courage makes the soul unique, the only one of its kind. No duplicate or replica from far away time.

But expose yourself to critics who cast harsh votes, they impose sentences to words I never wrote.

(Chorus)

It's my right to live original, the world spins back my way.
Yes original, a miracle no loss can slay.
So original... original... today

What separates men from those who would die the same, is an ability to press on when life's in constant change.

Ask your heart to listen in the silence, tonight you might hear a voice singing free—unique with delight—life's brief from birth to death.

It takes courage to be unlike the rest, and if a fingertip doesn't point your way, pick the high road, greatest wants you to play.

Live original... original... today
Be original... radical... ok
Original... magical...
Who cares what people say
Who cares what people say
